A Call for the Inclusion of Haitian Women in International Donor Meeting

As donor nations gather in New York for a major conference on reconstruction in Haiti, Haitian women are demanding that their voices be heard in all phases of the deliberation. To amplify their call, a coalition of Haitian and international women's organizations will hold a public event.

Who:

Edwidge Danticat, Haitian writer and activist
Marie St. Cyr, Haitian human rights advocate, and board member for MADRE and the Lambi Fund

When: Wednesday March 31, 1:15pm – 3:00pm

Where: Boss Rm., 8th Floor, Church Center | 44th Street & 1st Ave, New York, NY

MADRE calls for a human rights-based approach to reconstruction and supports Haitian women's call for policies that reflect the needs of Haiti's poor majority, not the financial interests of donor countries.
