

KATE ALEXANDER

POLICY & CAMPAIGNS
OFFICER

Kate supports MADRE's advocacy programs to develop US foreign policies that advance the rights of women, LGBTQIA+ persons, and other marginalized groups. Her work at MADRE focuses on feminist peace and climate justice as part of the Feminist Policy Jumpstart initiative, partnering with grassroots women worldwide to bring their perspectives and analysis to shape US policy-making. Kate has worked on transitional justice abroad in Uganda and Bosnia and previously worked on foreign policy campaigns with Freedom Forward, the International Peace Bureau, Peace Action New York State, and MoveOn. She holds an MPA from Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and a B.A. from Brandeis University.

- ▶ Kate is the board chair of Peace Action Fund of New York State, a grassroots anti-war movement organization.
- ▶ Her writing has appeared in The Diplomat, Common Dreams, Inkstick Media, and Foreign Policy.
- ▶ Kate has contributed to humanitarian law reports for the UN Mission Assistance in Afghanistan, the UN Commission of Inquiry on Syria, the War Crimes Chamber in Bosnia, and Uganda's transitional justice process.
